

Change is afoot in the 24-7 Prayer team. We're redeploying two of our senior leaders into new roles with the challenge to ignite and fuel prayer, mission and justice in Great Britain and across the globe.

Brian Heasley, one of the pioneers of 24-7 Prayer in Ibiza, author of Gatecrashing, and previous National Director of 24-7 Great Britain, will now be bringing his wisdom and skills to the role of International Prayer Director.

"I am passionate about prayer, mission and justice, and have been privileged to journey with this movement since the beginning. My heart is inspired and touched by all that God has done throughout the nations over the last 16 years. My vision is to see old wells uncovered and new wells opened within the church globally.

It's an honour to serve and help those in various nations who have been captivated with a heart for deeper prayer and greater mission. Hopefully we can bring some of what I have learnt and help it be outworked within an indigenous context around the globe."

Carla Harding, whose life was hijacked by God as an 18 year old in the first 24-7 Prayer Room will be leaving behind her role in International Prayer to become the National Director of 24-7 Great Britain.

"God has used this movement to change my faith and my life direction. He's given my soul a crash course in learning to live prayer, mission and justice as a daily choice. I want to do all I can to help as many as possible find their passion for God, and for loving others, so the Church in Great Britain can increasingly be a community of hope and an engine for kingdom change."

We'd love your prayer support as this transition takes place, and we're so excited for the next steps for 24-7 Prayer in Great Britain and all over the world. If you have any questions or queries email info@24-7prayer.com.
